OUR STORY.
 Over a century ago, breweries dotted British Columbia's landscape. Hop farming flourished, and our town's Squamish Valley Hop Ranch supplied hops to the British Empire. With the advent of Prohibition the number of breweries and hop farms dwindled. By the 1970s only a few large breweries remained.
 In 1980, BC's John Mitchell and Frank Appleton pioneered North America's first modern craft brewery at Horseshoe Bay on BC's spectacular Howe Sound, beginning what has become known as the craft brewing renaissance.
 In 1996, John Mitchell helped design the Howe Sound Brewery and worked as our first brewer developing our initial recipes. Known as the "grandfather of microbrewing in Canada", we are proud of his ongoing relationship with our brewery. Today, we continue to brew in the craft style, using unfiltered 100% barley mash. We pride ourselves in brewing a diverse selection of flavourful, well-balanced ales. We invite you to enjoy the experience.

OUR BOTTLE.
 This re-dosable bottle, known as a "pot-stopper", was widely used in Europe and North America prior to the 1950s. Our new combination cap is an innovative design that allows closure by both crown and wing caps. It can be reused and meets our green packaging objectives. HOWE SOUND BREWING

FATHER JOHN'S WINTER ALE

A rich, malty seasonal ale brewed every fall for the winter months. Made with four different malts, Nugget & Hallertau hops, and a complex blend of ginger, nutmeg, vanilla, cinnamon, treacle, honey and yellow sugar. Named for John Mitchell, Howe Sound's original brewer, and one of the fathers of Canadian microbrewing. Enjoy
